Lorenzo B. Mr. Crowder was one of the best known men in Helena and the sad news of his death was a shock to his friends.

Mr. Crowder took a bad cold Sunday which developed into pleuro pneumonia. The disease affected his heart and resulted in death.

Mr. Crowder was a native of Kansas City, Mo., and came to Helena more than fifteen years ago to enter the employ of Anderson Brothers, as a clothing salesman. He remained with this firm until they disposed of their business to Sanden and Fraser. He continued with the new firm for a number of years and afterwards resigned to accept a position with the Babcock company. Later he resigned this position to accept a position as bailiff of the United States court. Always genial, kindly and courteous he made many friends.

Besides his wife and one child, a daughter, Eleanor, he is survived by a mother, living in Kansas City, a brother, Colonel Crowder, judge advocate general of the United States army, who is in Washington, D. C., and another brother O. S. Crowder, of Kalispell. His father died in Helena about a year ago.

WAS ACCIDENT OR SUICIDE.

Young Man at Logging Camp on Swan Lake Found Dead In The House.

Coroner Waggener and Undersheriff Al Ingrham went to Swan Lake yesterday evening and brought to Kalispell the body of Ed Glines, who was either accidentally killed or committed suicide at noon yesterday. Glines was one of a party of four who were cutting logs, and were occupying a cabin a half mile from the lake. Yesterday about eleven o'clock he went to the cabin to begin preparations for dinner. When the other members of the party went to the cabin they found him lying on the floor with a bullet wound in his head. The bullet had entered his eye and penetrated the brain, death being undoubtedly instantaneous. By his side was lying an old 38 caliber revolver.

It is unknown whether it was accident or suicide, though it is believed to have been the latter. Coroner Waggener was telephoned to and an examination of the premises was made by him and Mr. Ingrham, and it was decided that no inquest was necessary.

Glines was about 26 years old, and unmarried. His mother in the east has been notified of his death, and the coroner is awaiting instructions as to the disposition of the body.

The body of Sven Holm, who died at the poor farm on Saturday, will be sent by Undertaker Waggener tonight to Hillsboro, North Dakota, on the instruction received from his daughter, who lives at Minot.

AN OLD RESIDENT GONE.

William H. Moses, an old resident of the town, and one of the oldest men in the county, was found dead in his bed at his residence Second street this morning.

J. A. Ford, who has been looking after Mr. Moses for some time, and assisting him in attending to his business affairs, went to his rooms this morning as usual, and found the door still locked. Soon after he received word from a lady living upstairs in the same building, that Mr. Moses had been heard groaning in the night, and that possibly all might not be well with him. Mr. Ford returned and forced the door. He found Mr. Moses lying in bed, with every indication that he had died without a struggle.

He had apparently been in good health yesterday, and was out to his meals as usual. When Mr. Ford talked with him yesterday he said nothing about feeling indisposed.

Mr. Moses was 82 years old. He came to Kalispell with his wife twelve or fourteen years ago and engaged in the tur business in which he continued to the time of his death. His first place of business was on First street, and when the building in which he was located was burned eight years ago, he moved to the building on Second street where he has since lived. Since the death of his wife two years ago, Mr. Moses has been in his house alone for the greater part of the time, looking after his business.

LAFAYETTE TINKEL

Lafayette Tinkel was born in Indiana in 1840, his father being of Holland descent, and his mother a native of Kentucky. While he was a young man, in the early 60's his parents moved to Iowa, making their home at Glenwood, in which town and in northwestern Iowa Mr. Tinkel lived for many years, engaging in merchandising and banking. In later years he followed the same business at Holyoke and in Denver, Colorado, and in the latter city his oldest son died.

Mr. Tinkel came to Kalispell in the spring of 1894, and bought the Kalispell flour mill, which he managed for a few years, and on selling the mill he developed the power at Big Fork and build the electric plant at that place. He was active in the direction of the plant until the death of Mrs. Tinkel in 1905, but with her loss seemed to go much of his active interest in business pursuits, and to a large extent he resigned the active management, until the sale of the plant to the present owners. For the past few years he has spent the winters in Los Angeles, the more kindly climate and a large number of friends in the California city calling to him strongly. His daughter, Mrs. R. E. Webster, of this city, and his son, F. W. Tinkel, of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, survive him. During the nearly fifteen years Kalispell has been his home, he was recognized as one of the foremost citizens of the town and the county.

Mr. Tinkel was a man of strong personality, and until the weight of years bore heavily upon him, of indemitable energy and industry. He was a keen and successful business man, and his insight and sagacity brought him ample material rewards. Of broad and liberal mind, the mere making of money was to him a secondary consideration, his greater delight being in pushing his plans to successful conclusion. While he neglected no legitimate means of obtaining success, it never came to him through taking advantage of the necessities of others. His dollars were clean.

But it was not as the successful business man that Lafayette Tinkel will live in the memory of those who were so fortunate as to be counted in the number of his friends. A most delightful companion, with old or young; a man of wide experience and observation; of cheery disposition, making light of his own ills; thoughtful for others, making their pleasure and comfort his first care; he bound his associates to him with the strongest ties of affection and respect. Tenacious of his own beliefs when he thought them founded on right, he was ever generous toward the opinions of others. Slow to condemn, he was prompt to commend, and was always more ready to find excuse for the failings of others than to look for opportunity to censure.

Men of his stamp are not so many, but that when from the circle of one's friends such as he goes out, a void is left. Over his bier his friends, his neighbors and his acquaintances, will join their grief with that of his sorrowing family, and realize to the full that they and the community have lost—a Man.

15 Feb 1909

F. W. Tinkel arrived last evening from Los Angeles with the remains of Mr. L. Tinkel. The funeral service occur tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock at the M. E. church, and will be in charge of the Masons and Rev. H. M. Green.

WAUGH WAS NOT POISONED.

After the death of Mrs. Ann Waugh, of Helena Flats, from what has been believed to be poisoning, a suspicion arose that possibly poison had been responsible for the death of her son, Roola D. Waugh, who died two weeks before his mother, and suddenly. The suspicion led to the exhumation of the body, and Saturday afternoon an examination was made by Drs. Duncan and Munro. Thorough tests were made to determine the presence or absence of poison, but nothing suspicious was found, and the body was directed to be reburied.
