EVAN E. DAY

Funeral services for E. E. Day were held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Sherman & Son chapel, Rev. W. H. Sandy and Rev. William Kochler officiating. Two beautiful solos were sung by Donald J. Shepard, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. H. E. Robbin. The pallbearers were Dr. J. A. Lamb, Archibald Paterson, T. E. Chester, Hans Walchli, Robert Pauline and Arthur Hollensteiner. The Knights Templar and members of the Masonic lodge attended the services in a body and held ritualistic services at the Conrad Memorial cemetery, where interment was made.

Obituary

Evan E. Day was born near Carmel, Indiana, April 17, 1867, and departed this life at his home in Kalispell on November 16, 1932, at the age of 65 years.

He came to Kalispell in 1893, bringing the machinery for the new flour mill, and superintended the installation. He remained here, entering the insurance business, until 1896, when he was elected city treasurer, then county treasurer for two terms, 1909-1913. He then re-entered the insurance business where he remained until his death.

He was married to Miss Jessie B. Burge of Kalispell in 1893, and to them one son, Evan, was born.

Mr. Day's father was a preacher in the Friends' church, and he remained steadfast in the teachings of that church. He was a member of the Masonic lodge and Knights Templar. He leaves to miss his presence, his widow, one son, Evan, Jr.; one grandson, Evan; three sisters in California; three nephews and two nieces in Indiana, and one nephew in California, other relatives, and many friends.

EVAN E. DAY

Mr. Day was an exemplary man, a most worthy, respected and valued citizen, and it is a real loss to any community when such a man passes on.

Personally I feel his loss deeply, deeply, because for almost half a century he was probably my best, most valued and most dependable friend. Of Quaker parentage, Mr. Day inherited many of the sterling qualities of his staunch and devout ancestors. Unostentatious, with his light always under a bushel, he was naturally sincere, honest, truthful, and loyal to the principles and people he approved of. His word was inviolate, and he was a most dependable man in all respects. Quiet of manner and soft of voice, he was not lacking in any attribute that made him socially attractive and compassionate, and he was always the perfect and kindly gentleman. Beset by sorrows, perplexities and with the ever present struggle for existence which affects rich and poor alike, and anxieties, he has borne his troubles without faltering and with the bravery of a stoic. Thinking of those things when I stood disconsolate at his grave and saw them put all that remained of my friend in its last resting place in that beautiful and peaceful spot, I thought how envied he should be with silent peace and oblivion to all the cares and worries of this world, and I wondered if that might not be the heaven we hear of so often and talk about so much. There may well be a place where our reward is relief from the trials we have suffered. If there is, my friend is there, for he was a believer in and follower of the Golden Rule and that was about the only requisite that Jesus mentioned or stressed.

Mr. Day was a sincere Christian gentleman and clean in every way. To his bereaved widow and son the profound sympathy of the entire community goes out.
