Cy Judd
rites held

Funeral services for Cyrus David Judd, were conducted from the Austin Chapel Tuesday at 2:00 p.m., with Rev. Ralph Werner, First Baptist Church, Columbia Falls, officiating. Music was furnished by Russell Ramlow, soloist and Mrs. George Lantz, organist.

Honorary pallbearers were, Bert Carlson, Pete Hoffman and Lloyd Welte. Active pallbearers were, Rudy Arvidson, Max Deaton, Norman Kastle, David Morris, Pat Timmons and Russell Warner.

Interment was in the Whitefish cemetery.

Cy Judd was born October 24, 1886 at Spokane, Washington a son of Acey and Dora Judd. He came to Montana with his parents in 1891 where his father worked for the Great Northern Railroad. As a young boy he went to Browning to work as a cowboy. Later he worked for cattlemen near Miles City, Malta, Billings and Glendive. In 1923 he moved to Detroit Lakes, Minnesota and for ten years lived in Minnesota, mostly buying and selling horses.

He was married to Cora Smith June 1, 1925 at Fergus Falls, Minnesota. She preceded him in death December 20, 1968.

Cy, with his wife, came to the Whitefish area in 1935 where he worked in local lumber mills and for the past few years they made their home at Half Moon. He continued his interest in horses and is well known throughout the Flathead for his participation in parades with his favorite horse Weasel. He was the oldest active participant in the Columbia Falls parades. His 23 year old horse, Weasel, died several months ago.

He is survived by one step-daughter, Mrs. Inar (Doris) Hanson of Whitefish; 2 grandchildren; 3 great grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Ella Whitney of Spokane, Washington; a brother-in-law, Frank Smith who resides in Columbia Falls and other relatives.

Mr. Judd passed away at his home in Half Moon on October 25, one day after his 83rd birthday.
