She married Eben H. Murray, on Aug. 13, 1904, at her home in Dawson. The couple lived in Nashua, N.H., Mendota, Ill., and St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. Murray taught school in Moscow, Idaho, wrote for newspapers, sold insurance, and taught Sunday school. She served for many years on The St. Louis Lecture Platform, giving lectures on a variety of subjects, and was active in church organizations.

After her husband died in 1953 she divided her time between Port Angeles, where her son lived, and world travels. She resided for the last several years in Hot Springs.

She is survived by her son, Mackenzie Murray of Hot Springs and several nieces, nephews, and cousins.

Services were Saturday under the direction of Shrider Funeral Home. Burial was at Murray Memorial Cemetery at Lonepine.

Memorials may be made to Hot Springs Presbyterian Church or to the Hot Springs Senior Citizen Center.
