OWEN GRINDE

Whitefish resident Owen Grinde, 75, died at a Missoula hospital, of complications following heart bypass surgery.

Funeral services were June 9 at Christ Lutheran Church. 5 June 1990

Mr. Grinde, born in Whitefish in 1915, went on to a career in journalism at the Butte Standard and then in public relations with Montana Power Co. After retirement he and his wife, Evelyn moved to their home on Whitefish Lake in 1980.

Mr. Grinde had been active in local organizations including the Stumptown Historical Society, the Whitefish Lake Preservation Committee and the American Legion and the Kiwanis Club.

He had served as commander of the local American Legion Post, was a former Montana Legion commander, and also served on the National American Legion Board. He served as commander of the Navel Training Center in Butte and was president of the Montana Reserve Officers organization. He helped reinstate the placing of white crosses alongside the highways in this region as a memorial to those who died in accidents, and promoted the Legion's Twins baseball team.

He also served on the Whitefish Planning Board, the Council on Aging and was a charter member of the Christ Lutheran Church.

He was a member of the Stumptown Historical Society, and co-chaired and wrote for the annual historical supplement of the organization.

He was born to Ed and Emma (Dukleth) Grinde, who had grown up on adjoining farms on the south end of Flathead Valley. His father was a fireman and engineer for the Great Northern Railroad.

After graduating from Whitefish High School in 1933, he worked with the Civilian Conservation Corps in Glacier National park.

He enjoyed working on the school newspaper and helping out publisher Gurney Moss on the Whitefish Pilot, so decided to attend the University of Montana school of journalism, graduating in 1938.

He began his newspaper career with the Montana Standard in Butte as a police reporter and later as a courthouse reporter. World War II interfered, and he served as a Navy intelligence officer in Pearl Harbor and Guam, entrusted with top secret information.

He then returned to the Standard, but his career was altered again by the onset of the Korean War, and he served the Navy again. He retired from the U.S. Navy Reserves as a commander.

He returned to the Standard again, before joining the Montana Power Co., working in public relations.

He is survived by his wife Evelyn (Allison) Grinde, sister Marjorie in Kalispell, brother Robert in Whitefish, and sons Paul of Havre and Eric of Aberdeen, and daughter Marilyn Dues of Washington; and three grandchildren, Lance, Andrea and Elena.

Interment was in the Montana Veterans Home Cemetery in Columbia Falls.
