Mary Nell MacIntyre, 94

Mary Nell MacIntyre passed away May 1, 2013, in Poulsbo, Wash., at age 94.

Born Mary Nell Buck in Bentonville, Ark., in 1919, she moved with her family in 1928 to farm in the Bitterroot Valley near Corvallis, where she spent many happy hours horsebackriding in the foothills of the Bitterroot Mountains.

Following her graduation from Whitworth College in Spokane in 1940, she returned to Montana and taught school in Pony, Absarokee and Columbia Falls.

In 1941, she married David H. MacIntyre, a fellow graduate of Whitworth College from Anacanda. After his discharge from the Army in 1945, he went to work for the Anacanda Copper Company, and for several years they and their young family lived in Chuquicamata, Chile, before returning to Montana and eventually building a home overlooking the Flathead River in Columbia Falls.

As her own five children grew up and left home, Mary Nell returned to teaching and was very active in the PEO, the Columbia Falls

Methodist Church and served on the boards of both the Columbia Falls and Flathead County libraries.

Mary Nell and Dave continued to travel widely, but were never happier than when sitting at home on their back deck admiring the view of the Flathead River as it flowed south from the peaks of Glacier National Park. After Dave's passing in 1999, Mary Nell moved to Poulsbo to be closer to her children and traded her view of the Rockies for a view of the Olympics rising above Puget Sound.

She departs us now to return to Montana to lie at the side of her husband in the shadow of the mountains they knew and loved so well.

Interment will be at Woodlawn Cemetery in Columbia Falls.

Annie Lea (Breckenridge) Mack, 93

Annie Lea (Breckenridge) Mack, 93, passed away on March 25, 2013, at Immanuel Lutheran Care Center in Kalispell, after a long and valiant battle with Alzheimer's.

She was born in Seattle on Sept. 21, 1919, to Jeff and Rinda Anna Breckenridge and was the youngest of nine children — four boys and five girls.

Annie graduated from high school in Seattle and soon after, on Feb. 12, 1938, married Frederick James Mack, who was her lifetime love for 66 years. They relocated to Colorado where Fred worked in the mines and also for the Forest Service, running a string of pack mules. After the start of World War II, they moved back to Seattle and started their business doing excavation, landscaping and building rock retaining walls, while at the same time working in the shipyards.

In the early 1970s, Fred and Annie relocated to Leavenworth, Wash., where they purchased and operated the River Terrace Cafe, cabins and service station, with the hopes of becoming semi-retired. That didn't happen. In the early 1980s, after selling their business in Leavenworth, they moved to Whitefish where they spent several summers as campground hosts at various sites on the Hungry Horse Reservoir and at Big Creek campground on the North Fork of the Flathead River.

Annie belonged to the Eastern Star and was a member of Green Lake Lodge and Greenwood Lodge in Seattle, as well as being a past Worthy Matron of Greenwood Lodge.

Annie was preceded in death by her husband, Fred, in 2004; her father and mother; four brothers and four sisters.

She is survived by her two sons, Fred J. "Fritz" Mack Jr. and wife Rena of Everett, Wash., and Robert L. "Bob" Mack and wife Lynne of Columbia Falls, eight grandchildren, 10 great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren.

At Annie's request there will be no funeral service. A private memorial will be held at a later date when Fred and Annie's ashes will be scattered and forever entwined in a special place they both loved.

The loving care and kindness Annie received the last nine years of her life at Immanuel Lutheran in Bratsford Wing will forever be remembered.

In lieu of flowers, the family suggests donations be made to Immanuel Lutheran Care Center.

You are invited to go to www.austinhf.com to offer condolences, share memories and view Annie's tribute wall.

Patrick Michael 'Papa' Mahar Sr., 67

Patrick Michael "Papa" Mahar Sr., 67, died at peace on Aug. 21, 2012, at Kalispell Regional Medical Center as a result of a tragic work-related accident. He was surrounded by family and friends.

Pat was born in Spokane on March 20, 1945, to parents William "Irish" and Janeava Mahar. He grew up spending time at his family's ranch just north of Spokane in Elk, Wash., where he became an incredible horseman and a true cowboy. Growing up he had a very close relationship with his grandmother Hazel Winters, whom he loved very much, along with her lemon meringue pies.

Pat married Pamela (Speights) in Sandpoint, Idaho on Feb. 2, 1965. Pat worked nights as a mechanic while quickly advancing to lead foreman and part owner at Northwest Mono Roof by day. Pat moved his family to Kalispell in 1978, to own and operate his own roofing company, Valley Roofing, as well as All Systems Roofing. His slogan was "Above all a good roof." He later started, owned and operated Valley Sheet Metal and the Hayshed Arena.

be a man, plus the importance of providing for our own children. He in one way or another touched and made a difference in everyone he knew. Countless amounts of our friends growing up considered and loved him as their own father.

He was an avid horseman, competing in team roping and sporting events. He loved being on the back of a horse riding, just riding, and loved team roping, for which he built one of the nicest and finest indoor and outdoor arenas in the valley, the "Hayshed Arena," so he and his friends could ride no matter what the weather was outside. He was a huge supporter of NBHA MT5 racers and the Flathead County Fair, where he served on the Queen board for many years. He also had a great love for anything old, especially classic cars and guns. He loved collecting and shooting guns; he had a plethora of knowledge on anything to do with firearms. He had a passion for working with leather and there was nothing he couldn't make out of it, anything from wallets, purses, a belt, all the way up to a saddle.

Pat leaves behind his former wife, Pam; one daughter, Kim (Olsen) Rodriguez of Billings; two sons, Patrick Michael Mahar Jr. and wife, Veronica "Roni" Coulter Mahar, of Kalispell, and Geoff Dunning and wife, Tamara, of Seattle; five grandsons, Nicholas and Rico Rodriguez, Colten Dunning, Britain Morin and Michael Patrick Mahar; one granddaughter, Madilyn "Madi Mae" Mahar, the apple of his eye; close friend and companion, Nancy Howell; and brother, Len Mahar of Spokane.

Pat was preceded in death by his parents; and brother, William Mahar.

What can a child say or write when they think of their father? As well, explain and express the great gratitude of the ways he has taught us? When we think of all the things that we have put him through? We remember him always standing by us and teaching us to be honest and true. Our father is like steel which never bends, he had a mind of his own and made his own trends.

Papa was a hardworking, ambitious, dedicated, self-made maverick of a man who devoted his time to work, family — family and work! He was absolutely the toughest man and the hardest worker we have ever known. We never wanted for a thing. He was a fantastic provider for his family. He was such an incredible father and not just to his own children but all of our friends as well. Our dad taught us and all of our friends growing up how to work hard and what it was to

Dad loved spending time with his children, grandchildren and his many close friends.

"There was rarely a day that went by that I didn't see or speak to my dad on the phone at least once if not 10 times a day. I will so very much miss hearing the phone ring and seeing my caller ID read 'DAD,' he was the first person every morning that called. We had a very special and close relationship. He wasn't just my dad, he truly was my very best friend. If it's been a while since you have talked to your Dad or Mom or someone you love, pick up the phone, you just never know when you may not be able to anymore."

"God bless."

"We all love you, we will miss you so very much."

"Dad, Papa and loving friend, what are we going to do without you?"

Services will be at 1 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 28, at the Cowboy Church, 3171 U.S. 93 N., in Kalispell. A graveside service will follow at C.E. Conrad Memorial Cemetery. There will be a celebration of life party and potluck at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 1 at the Edgewater RV park in Lakeside, under the pavilion directly across from the marina and The Docks restaurant. See you there!

Bob and Marilyn spent 16 years of their retirement together near Rathdrum, Idaho, at Twin Lakes Village Golf Course. They have several friends there, especially Al and Theresa Underwood. They returned to Eureka and the closeness of their family in June 2008 when Bob's health weakened him.

Bob's favorite activities included fishing, golfing, camping, bowling and a love of most any sports. He had a passion for music, which included drumming, playing the harmonica and singing. He performed with several different groups and bands over the years.

As a young man he played town team baseball with lifetime friends like Bill Gwynn. He was a 26-year veteran of the Montana Officials Association as a basketball referee. Bob and Jim Peltier were a refereeing team for several years. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge and a Scottish Rite Shriner.

For such a small man, he had a huge heart. He was a good man, fine husband, father, grandfather and great-grandfather. His flamboyant personality, smiles and sense of humor will live within us all forever. He was a true Montana man with his work ethic, and his belief in God, family, country, community and personal responsibility.

Bob was preceded in death by his parents; and brothers, Frank Mason and Ronnie Torrey.

He is survived by his wife, Marilyn, of 61 years; and their four children, Bobbi and Mike Hedges, Pam and Jake Pluid, Gary and Sandi Mason, and Tana and Mark Johnston; a sister, Barbara, and Mason Morgan, of West Kootenai, Rexford; 10 grandchildren, Kami, Jaime, Cody, Dru, Leslie, Beau, Kyle, Justin, Shan and Paige; 13 great-grandchildren; several nieces, nephews and cousins; and a host of wonderful friends spanning across this country and Canada.

Graveside services were held at the Tobacco Valley Cemetery on Nov. 22, followed by a reception at the VFW Post in Eureka.

In lieu of flowers, the family asks that donations be made to the Good Samaritan-Mountain View Manor in Eureka, or the Alzheimer's Association.

Arrangements are by Schnackenberg & Nelson Funeral Home in Eureka.

Vernon Peter Mauritsen, 96

Vernon Peter Mauritsen, 96, died peacefully in his sleep on Monday morning, Nov. 25, 2013, at Immanuel Lutheran Home in Kalispell.

He was born Oct. 2, 1917, on a homestead 20 miles north of Devon, Mont., to Alexander Mauritsen (originally from Ornhøj, Denmark) and Bertha Starks Hinman Mauritsen (originally from Lansing, Mich.).

His son says he died of living, and this is why we think so:

"Vern, the Builder" began his young life with orange crates for wood and a rock for a hammer. Nails he must have found in objects he'd taken apart.

To his building talent, he added an education. Elementary school in Dodson and Malta, high school in Culbertson, and finally college at Concordia College, Moorhead, Minn., and VanderCook College of Music in Chicago. His parents were musicians and started him at a young age, first on trumpet and then on violin. (He actually built a violin later in life.)

He taught both history and band in Browning for four years, and then kept on building and teaching in Sunburst for another 25 years. His band there, built out of kids from 10 to 18 years old, worked hard to make the ensemble of 60 musicians which led the Rose Parade in Portland in 1954 as Honor Band. Vern built a choir consisting of voices from all around the Highline and Alberta — The Oilfield Men's Chorus. And at the same time, week after week, he built a choir at Sunburst Lutheran Church that praised God in music on Sundays.

tise came to the attention of the Concordia Language Villages in Moorhead.

From 1967 to 1971 Vern was director of the language villages, and under his and May's directorship built first the Norwegian and then the Spanish and German villages in their native architecture.

Vern and May moved to Bigfork in 1971, and we thought it was to retire. Instead, May taught school and Vern served as superintendent of Parks and Recreation and bettered the Flathead Valley as board member of the Community Concert Organization and Immanuel Lutheran Home. After building their dream home, Vern continued woodworking. His wooden boxes and furniture were artistic and sleek (his Danish influence). As you can see, Vernon was a master builder.

Vern built a family, as mentioned, and among them are his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Surviving are two trumpet players, a flutist, three clarinetists, a drummer, three pianists, 11 singers and a violinist. His wife, May, is now at Las Fuentes Retirement Community, 1035 Scott Dr., Prescott, AZ 86301, and also surviving are his children, Carol McDonald in San Jose, Calif., Peter Mauritsen and wife Harriet in Prescott, Jean Frantz and husband Paul in Eugene, Ore., and Mark Mauritsen and wife Mecca in Artesia, N.M., all of them builders of some sort or another.

In 1941, "Vern, the Builder" married May Bellerud, the designer, and made her a partner in building for the next 72 years. Together they built a family, a lumber yard, the Sunburst Builder's Mart, a contracting business for prefab homes, a chicken plucking machine, a boat, and a life together that inspired their children and the people who knew them.

Vern's building exper-

Helen Marie Burnell Mauzey, 87

On Oct. 10, 1925, Helen Marie Burnell was born at the family home in Kalispell to Herbert E. and Gladys Carnahan Burnell. She was a "country kid" being raised on a farm just outside of town.

She graduated from Flathead County High School in 1943 and eventually went to work as a bookkeeper for Pacific Fruit & Produce where she met her future husband, Gene Mauzey. They married on June 19, 1949, and were married for 60 years until Gene's death in 2011. Helen continued to work at intervals for Pacific Fruit, even after she and Gene moved to Woods Bay to care for Gene's dad.

Helen was an accomplished seamstress and sewed many of her family's clothes. She also enjoyed cooking (a family heritage) and the Mauzey home was known as a place for good food and fun. She thought nothing of hosting parties for large groups and was equally open to us kids bringing anyone home for dinner (even after working all day). Whatever house we lived in, she would think of something that would make it "better" and she kept Dad busy tearing down, tearing out, building up, etc.

Helen was a lifelong member of the American Legion Auxiliary where she served as post president. She also belonged to Toastmistress and enjoyed honing her love for witty banter and playful arguing.

She was a member of the First Bible Presbyterian Church in Kalispell and the most important thing in her life was her relationship with her God. She loved studying the Bible for herself and spent many years enjoying sweet fellowship with her Bible study ladies.

After Gene retired they purchased a fifth wheel and spent several winters snow birding. They found ministries in need of help and devoted many hours to helping on construction projects, cooking, making quilts - whatever was needed, they were willing to do their best. Their traveling companions during this time were Gene's cousin and his wife and they covered much of the southern U.S. together.

Helen "shed her worn out 'tent' and entered real life" on Sunday, Oct. 6, 2013, at the Warren House Assisted Living in Burley, Idaho.

She is survived by her children, Shirley and John Ramey of Burley, John and Tina Mauzey of Kalispell, and Steve and Linda Mauzey of Oregon City, Ore.; six grandchildren; 10 great-grandchildren; one brother, Fred, and Pat Burnell, of Stevensville; one sister, Evelyn Shepard, of Kalispell; two nephews; and one niece.

A service in Helen's memory will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 12, at the Calvary Baptist Church, 515 W. 27th St., in Burley.

The family expresses its sincere appreciation to the staff at the Warren House for the excellent care they provided for Mom during the last year and a half of her life.

Arrangements have been entrusted to the care of the Rasmussen Funeral Home of Burley.

Amber Morgan McAtee, 38

Amber Morgan McAtee was born on April 20, 1975, in Kalispell, Montana.

At the core of all these adventures was love. Love was the root of so many of Amber's actions and journeys. It allowed her to extend unquestioning kindness to so many and to forgive those without hesitation or the necessity of apology. This love was the force that fueled her passion to travel and explore the world around her with an open heart. It was with love that she was present and participating in the lives of her many nieces, nephews, family members and friends.

"Now Amber has this love - For she is with this love, and in this love she will forever know peace."

Paul J. McCann, 92

When Anne Marie Zwisler accepted a ride to Minneapolis from Chicago with a young and handsome law student named Paul McCann, she was unaware that this trip would be the beginning of a 65-year journey together.

During his life with Anne Marie, Paul consistently displayed his love for their family and friends, an appreciation for education, a deep intellectual curiosity, a passion for business, generosity for the communities in which he lived, and an infatuation with the independent and entrepreneurial spirit that defines the West.

His life began in the small farming community of Crookston, Minn. He later moved with his family to a farm near Cando, N.D. When discussing his childhood with friends, he often said that he "rode the milk cow to school so that I would not have to buy milk at lunch."

He attended Saint John's University in Minnesota for two years and then transferred to the University of North Dakota, which enabled him to find work while attending college.

Following college, he served in the U.S. Army during World War II. After serving his country, he moved to Chicago to attend law school at Loyola Marymount University while working at the Internal Revenue Service. Chicago changed his life.

There, as a result of his having attended law school, he developed a highly analytical way of thinking. His time at the IRS also gave him some excitement. He had the opportunity to audit some of Chicago's most infamous criminals of the 1940s and was fond of recalling his adventures prosecuting organized crime.

It was also in Chicago that he met Anne Marie, a beautiful young social worker. While attending law school, he and Anne Marie started their family. They eventually had eight children, William, Thomas, Paul Jr., Miriam, Genet, Timothy, Kathleen and Sheila.

Paul's strong work ethic enabled him to provide for his wonderful family by working as a tax attorney and later as a successful entrepreneur. Paul loved the intellectual challenge, the strong relationships and the entrepreneurial mindset required to be a successful businessperson. Although he spent much of his time outside the home in order to provide for his large family, he cherished every moment spent with them, so much so that he would often leave the house just when a plane began boarding, which often resulted in hair-raising races to the airport.

As his children grew, he felt strongly that they should pursue higher education. He paid for all eight of his children and many of his grandchildren to attend college and graduate school. He had a special regard for legal education, to the extent his granddaughter, Tori, remembers him trying to persuade her to attend law school instead of dental school. When she would not relent, he advised her to pursue both degrees, but to attend law school first.

Paul's family and friends remember him in constant celebration of life itself. His gregarious nature manifested itself through many cheerful parties. He continued to be gracious in welcoming friends and family to stay at his home throughout his life and had a habit of inviting people to "have a seat" as a way of initiating conversation.

His abiding love of Montana led him to relocate to the Flathead Valley from eastern Montana in later years. While overlooking Flathead Lake from his home on Polson Bay, he would reflect on his life with his devoted wife while enjoying the changing of the seasons. He especially appreciated the numerous boating excursions he took with his son and daughter-in-law, Tim and Corinna.

His admiration for his fellow Montanans led him and his wife to create a foundation, which supports children's causes, Catholic organizations, mental health-care facilities and other Montana charities.

On June 29, 2013, after saying the rosary with his wife and having a pleasant lunch, Paul passed away in his sleep from a heart attack at home. He was 92.

He will be missed by his wife, Anne Marie, his eight children, his 15 grandchildren, and his five great-grandchildren.

His funeral will be held in Polson at noon Friday, July 12, at Immaculate Conception Catholic Parish.

Messages of condolences may be shared with the family online at www.gro-ganfuneralhome.com.

Linn's family moved to Polson in 1955. He attended Polson High School. In addition to his academic achievements, he was Pirate No. 86, offensive end when, on Nov. 8, 1969, the Butte Maroons finally ended Polson's 13 game-winning streak in the State Class A Championship football game. Linn transferred to Ronan High School during his senior year, played football there as a Chief and graduated in 1970.

Linn was an expert carpenter and took great pride and care in his work. He built many houses around the Flathead and in Alaska. Linn relocated to North Pole, Alaska, in 1998 where he found work with University RediMix, mostly driv-

Olen Marie McCulloch, 95

Olen Marie McCulloch, 95, passed away on Feb. 12, 2013, at the Heritage Place.

She was born in Minneapolis Feb. 13, 1917, to Theodore B. and Marie "Mary" Engler Steen.

She graduated from West High School in 1935 in Minneapolis, and attended Sioux Falls College in South Dakota for two years where she became a registered medical X-ray technician. After two years of training at Swedish Hospital in Minneapolis she took her first job at the old Thornton Hospital in Missoula.

She later joined the Waves and served as a pharmacist's mate first class in the Naval Dispensary in Long Beach, Calif.

Olen was an active member of Bethlehem Lutheran Church. She taught Sunday School, Vacation Bible School, served with Adeleine Sparling counting the offering every Monday morning for about 10 years, and she headed the wedding committee for two years. When her husband retired from teaching in 1977 her lifestyle changed. They enjoyed traveling and later spent winters in Borrego Springs, Calif.

She played tennis in her school days and golf in her senior years. But above all, she loved walking, with friends and daughters; she did some hiking in Glacier Park — the best being an overnight to Sperry Glacier.

Jessie Fay McEntire, 89

Jessie Fay McEntire passed away on Oct. 27, 2013, at Marcus Daly Memorial Hospital in Hamilton.

She was born in Idabel, Okla., on July 9, 1923, to Lee and Cindy Bivins. Her four sisters and four brothers affectionately called her "Sister."

In 1940, she married Alfred McEntire and they had four children together, Steve, Linda and twin boys, Danny and Stanley. After living in several states, they settled in the Bitterroot Valley in 1959 where she resided until her death.

In 1965, Stanley was injured in a logging accident rendering him a quadriplegic. Jessie cared for him for 26 years while simultaneously working at the Valley View Nursing Home. Her positive and loving attitude encouraged all, especially Stanley as he became an internationally recognized artist for his oil paintings created by holding a brush in his mouth.

After breaking her hip, Jessie moved into the Bitterroot Manor and resided there for many years before moving into the Discovery Care Centre in 2010. She loved playing bingo and other games with her fellow residents. Her friends and family enjoyed her vivid recollection of major historical events that she personally experienced, such as the Dust Bowl and World War II. Her interest in current events and politics never wavered; she read the newspaper or watched the news every day.

Jessie loved her children, grandchildren, great grandchildren and friends and was proud of each of them.

She was truly a "grand" lady in all ways and will be remembered for her loving, caring and giving heart, along with her wonderful sense of humor.

Wayne was born Oct. 4, 1928, to Robert H. and Jennie (Wangen) McFadden at the family home on Fir Avenue in Whitefish. He joined sisters Eva Marie and Alda Pearl as their only son. Repeated bouts of rheumatic fever interrupted his education, so Wayne graduated from Whitefish High School with the class of 1948.

In 1952, he spent two months in training with the U.S. Army at Camp Roberts and Camp San Luis Obispo in California, but was honorably discharged due to a back ailment.

Wayne was married and divorced four times; first to Norma Hankins of Whitefish, then to Dorothy Conat of Whitefish (he was stepfather to her two sons, Griff and Greg Stevens), to Cora Hannon of Sunburst, Mont., and finally to Delorise "Dodi" Case of Anaheim, Calif.

A devoted son and brother, Wayne enjoyed fishing, and later became a motorhome enthusiast. In his senior years as a "snowbird," he spent summers in Whitefish and winters in Yuma, Ariz., or Sun City, Calif. He was always accompanied by a few cats and dogs, his beloved pets.

Ever since 1969, Wayne was a ChildFund International (formerly Christian Children's Fund) sponsor, and always looked forward to letters and pictures he'd receive from those he supported.

Thanks to excellent private and hospice care, Wayne remained at home until the end of his life. Barbra Winogene N. McIntyre, 91

Barbra Winogene N. McIntyre passed away peacefully under hospice care on April 27, 2013. Her husband of 69 and a half years and son were at her side.

Winogene was born on May 9, 1921, in Sioux Falls, S.D. She was the sixth of six children. She became a talented pianist in high school and went to the University of Minnesota initially to study music, but later changed to the sciences. After two years she transferred to the University of Washington and majored in bacteriology.

It was there that she met her husband, Bruce C. McIntyre, from St. John, Wash., and they were married in Seattle on Oct 10, 1943. In 1944 Bruce entered medical school at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. Winogene worked in the clinical laboratory at the university hospital as a medical technologist. She then went to night school at Georgetown and earned a Master of Science degree in biochemistry. When Bruce earned his M.D., they were the first couple to graduate together at Georgetown for advanced degrees. While Bruce did his internship and residency at D.C. General Hospital, Winogene taught at the College Park campus of the University of Maryland. They returned to St. John to pay off their college debt and take over his father's medical practice. Winogene worked as a medical technologist, X-ray technician and office manager, and established a walking blood bank in the small eastern Washington community.

traveling internationally to become friends and learn about the cultures of others. This sent them off on adventures around the world, and traveling became a wonderful retirement activity.

Winogene was always involved in a variety of volunteer work. She was the president of the Washington State Medical Technology Association. She was the only person in the Flathead County qualified to train Red Cross First Aid instructors and CPR instructors. She set up the initial courses that later trained primary first responders. She served for over a decade on the Whitefish Credit Union credit committee. She was very involved with the Whitefish Winter Carnival for many years. Also, she served as the chairwoman of the 50th anniversary celebration of Christ Lutheran Church, as well as a seventh grade confirmation instructor and Bethel Bible instructor. She was selected as a Kellogg Fellow to participate in a workshop on communication at Montana State University in 1976. She was active in Toastmistress Club and placed second in the state in a speech competition. She was honored by Beta Sigma Phi for outstanding service to the community in 1977, and named that year's First Lady of Whitefish.

After 11 years of practice, Winogene's brother convinced them to try skiing. After skiing Sun Valley, they were encouraged to try Whitefish, and also looked into moving there as the town needed another doctor. One trip was all they needed and they decided to move in January 1959 after the birth of their son, Curt. After practicing in a clinic for three years that serviced both Whitefish and Eureka, Bruce and Winogene took out a mortgage and began a clinic of their own, the Whitefish Clinic, which became one of the forerunners of Glacier Peak Medical years later.

They got the aviation bug and both became light aircraft pilots, a passion they enjoyed for many years. In 1978 they sold their home in Whitefish and moved to Lakeside. They lived there part time, and in Galen where Bruce took on a position providing medical care for the state mental hospital and sanitarium.

Winogene revived a chapter of Friendship Force International in the Flathead Valley. Friendship Forces builds worldwide friendships by both hosting foreigners with similar interests, hobbies, professions, etc., in one's home, and Winogene was a happy intellectual who always encouraged others to life-long learning. She enjoyed hiking, bridge, flying, skiing, traveling and being a wife and mother. Agnes McLean, 93

Agnes passed away on Dec. 1, 2013, at the Brendan House, with her children by her side.

Agnes McLean was born in New York City to Joseph and Anna Indrisek on Dec. 6, 1920. Agnes would tell of her earliest recollections of childhood days spent in a little village in Czechoslovakia where her parents took her at the age of three. When she was about seven, Agnes and her family returned to America and she entered school.

At 16, she landed a "temporary" job in the circulation department of Newsweek Magazine. She continued her studies at night, and over the years was made the chief correspondent for the magazine's independent agents.

An active member of the Holy Name Parish on 96th Street, she was involved with many facets of the parish's weekly life. It was here that Agnes met and married her husband of 57 years, Hugh Gallagher McLean. After relocating to Ridgefield Park, N.J., and the St. Francis of Assisi Parish, Agnes was a full-time Mom, wife and volunteer in many church, school and civic organizations.

Over the years, Agnes continued to use her correspondence skills to stay in touch with many friends and family from her former livelihood. The family had many adventures and stayed close with her family in Connecticut. As the children grew and moved on, Agnes and her husband remained active and involved in their town's continued growth. A circle of friends who graced their card group was always a highlight for Agnes and her husband.

In 1997, Agnes and Hugh moved to Kalispell.

Agnes continued to stay in touch with many of her friends, family and colleagues from back East. Their cards and letters were a constant source of warmth for Agnes through the Montana winters.

Agnes is survived by her children, Tim McLean and wife, Kathy; Mike McLean; Bear McLean and wife, Chris; Patricia and husband, Cary; five grandchildren, Zach, Nick, Ann Marie, Mark and Matt; and nieces and nephews from back East.

The family is grateful to all the caregivers who have assisted Agnes and her husband over the past six years.

A Mass of Christian Burial will be celebrated at 12:10 p.m. on Tuesday, May 13, at St. Matthew's Catholic Church in Kalispell. Interment will follow at Glacier Memorial Gardens.
